4 Types and uses of QERDS

4.1 Access to the Service

Access to the several QERDS URLs will be carried out by means of secure protocols and encrypted communications.

4.2 Events and Evidences

As stated in article 3.36 of eIDAS regulation, the electronic registered delivery service is <> therefore, Evicertia Service allows to collect evidence ensuring that the sender's electronic messages are delivered to its receiver, thus guaranteeing the accuracy and completeness of the evidence.

The person in charge of guaranteeing such accuracy and completeness is the CSP, through a series of cryptographic processes such as implementing electronic signatures and qualified time stamps. Both the signature process and the time stamps are provided by CSP in accordance with the eIDAS Regulation.

Evicertia's evidences are referred to as affidavits<sup>1</sup> and they are documents that collect all expert information evidencing that an event has occurred, and it has not been subsequently modified. Affidavits may include:

- Sender and Receiver's data of electronic messages.
- The contents sent, along with the processed documents attached, also include cryptographic summaries of the same.
- Affidavits may also include information about the following events:
  - Issuance and delivery to the receiver's mail server.
  - Delivery to the receiver's mail server or delivery failure if the message could not be sent.
  - Opening of message.
  - Or any subsequent actions taken by the receiver (if any).
  - The time zone will be UTC (Coordinated Universal Time).

In order to guarantee the integrity of the document and that it has not been subsequently modified, each affidavit is electronically signed by the service, and a qualified time stamp is included.

The sender will have access to all his affidavits in the qualified delivery service, during the relevant safekeeping period and for a minimum period of fifteen years. The receiver will be able to access the affidavits by means of the support service or the sender's information. Once the term of the contract has ended, neither party will have access to the affidavits.
